

FACILITATOR

Joanne Ford

Head of Learning APAC

Joanne Ford is a training and development specialist based in Singapore and is passionate about the psychology of change and effective communication. Her focus is about inspiring change and driving business performance through effective communication, strong leadership and sustainable behavioural change. She has extensive experience in the areas of banking, business and education and has worked in Hong Kong, Singapore, India, Indonesia, Malaysia and South Africa.

Her experience gives her a good insight into how cultural and language nuances impact effective communication and leadership within an organisation. She works with professionals of all levels and brings enthusiasm and energy to encourage renewed thinking of possibilities and potential. She empowers participants to challenge their boundaries and to redefine both their personal and professional spheres.

Prior to joining BlueKey Learning, Joanne has worked in an investment bank and as a teacher and lecturer in the secondary and tertiary education sector. As a facilitator, Joanne has worked with leadership, finance, operations, project management and sales divisions as both a group facilitator and as a one-on-one coach. She is also an experienced presenter and keynote speaker.

ABOUT THE WORKSHOPS

- A variety of pedagogical methods are used in all the workshops to keep participants active and engaged. Each topic integrates age appropriate examples and case studies, leading-edge research and industry insights with participants' personal experiences to provide practical skills-based learning.
- All topics are focused on developing public speaking and presentation skills that encompass a high impact personal style that is authentic and sustainable.
- Workshops are set up to ensure participants get maximum coaching time in a group environment as well as an opportunity to support each other through the learning process.
